I am responding to your advertisement for the Mobile Developer job available at your prestigious organization. My qualifications include an MCA and 11 years of application development experience. In my current position, I set architecture and design mobile applications and publish them for apple smartphones. I am highly skilled as a mobile developer routinely creating innovative and useful apps that are popular and that work well. I keep abreast of all technological changes and update released and published applications to fit improving mobile phone offerings. With today's smartphone technology I understand that Apple's iPhone products are at the top of the industry and I would love the opportunity to be a part of the mobile app development team. I have terrific attention to detail am organized efficiently and possess superior application development skills. I am very excited at the opportunity available at your organization for a Mobile Architect and I'm certain you'll agree that I present a terrific candidate. I would enjoy meeting in person as soon as possible to discuss the position and what my role would be. Regards, Tejas
